Congratulations! You have taken a first step toward better health by discussing your drinking with your health care provider. Between now and your next visit, you may wish to read the rest of this brochure for suggestions on how to succeed with your plan.

Step 4: Identify Drinking Triggers

Many individuals discover that certain activities, feelings and/or situations trigger the urge to drink, including some of the items listed below:

Parties/Celebrations	Use of tobacco
Boredom	Use of drugs
Tension	Sleep problems
Loneliness	Family
Friends	Feelings of failure
Frustration	Criticism
Children	Anger
Weekends	Other people drinking
Arguments	Going out after work
Crisis situations	TV, radio or magazine ads

What might some of your triggers be? When you get the urge to drink, you can remind yourself of your personal reasons for cutting back.

Step 5: Determine Ways to Cope with Trigger Situations

Different individuals manage their drinking triggers in different ways including some of the ways listed below:

- Calling a friend
- Reading a book
- Going for a walk
- Reading this pamphlet
- Thinking about my reasons for quitting or cutting back
- Congratulating myself for working to drink less
- Playing a sport
- Appreciating nature
- Visiting a neighbor
- Watching a movie
- Telling myself my unpleasant feelings will pass
- Thinking of good things that have come from cutting back
- Thinking of something pleasant I could do tomorrow
- Discussing with my partner ways to avoid arguments
- Remembering that it is not necessary to drink to calm myself after an argument
- Telling myself that drinking won't improve the situation
- Telling others I am cutting back or quitting drinking to improve my health

What might you do to manage the urge to drink?
